

Vicky Stobbart —

Guildford and Waverley ICP Director & Director of Clinical Integration (RSCH)

Vicky is committed to leading the development of strong multi-agency partnerships that deliver the best outcomes for people. She works within the Surrey Heartlands Health and Social Care Partnership as the Guildford and Waverley Integrated Care Partnership Director and the Director of Clinical Integration (at the Royal Surrey County Hospital).

Vicky qualified as a Registered Nurse (learning Disabilities) in 1993 and since then has developed a broad portfolio in clinical, management and leadership roles at a senior level. She has developed a reputation for collaborative working and building partnerships in complex, changing and challenging environments. Vicky has extensive experience in front line community nursing, management of multi-disciplinary teams, service development and commissioning.

She has worked at national level and was the Assistant Director for Safer Solutions (Learning Disabilities) at the National Patient Safety Agency from 2002-2006. Following the completion of a Masters Degree in Action Learning, Vicky was appointed to lead the integration of the health and social care learning disability services for the London Borough of Southwark.
